Porno popping up on TV screens across America — scaring the hell out of shocked viewers

Families beware! All across the country, men, women and children are being unexpectedly bombarded with raw nudity and steamy sex scenes — and the X-rated smut is coming from their own television sets!

By SANDRA LEE
Weekly World News

The problem stems from the ever-expanding number of channels offered on satellite TV. Nowadays there are dozens of porno channels of every kind available all over the dial — and it's almost impossible to flip on the TV without encountering one of them.

The result is that kids — and sometimes even Mom and Dad — learn a thing or two about the birds and bees.

"I was humiliated — right in front of my two children," said one Kansas mother, who asked to not be identified. "And the more I tried to change channels, the worse the shows got.

"It was like I was trapped in some kind of a pornography zone."

Several child advocacy groups have vowed to address the situation later this year.

But until something is done, more and more families will have to deal with surprises like a family in Denver, Colo., did recently.

"The whole family was settling in to watch an episode of Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman and this wild sex orgy came on," the Denver father said. "By the time I got it off the TV, we were so stunned that we didn't even care about Dr. Quinn.

"Plus, I was afraid to even try to turn the TV back on. I decided to unplug the thing and leave it unplugged."

GILLETTE, Wyo. — Pretty high-school math teacher Cheryl Trover sobbed as she told cops how a masked intruder forced his way into her home, killed her husband, tied up her children, brutally raped her and set her car on fire.

By MICHAEL FORSYTH
Weekly World News

But it was all a clever lie, investigators determined within days — designed to hide the fact that she had murdered her husband herself.

And, as lawmen closed in, the desperate mom avoided the gas chamber by committing suicide!

Cops say Mrs. Trover made several errors that turned a promising murder scheme into a fatal fiasco. The biggest was that her son and daughter, ages 10 and 15, had no trouble identifying their mother as the person who tied them up, despite the ski mask she wore as a disguise.

"They told us they thought she was playing a game with them," revealed Police Chief Ric Paul.

Before the faked home invasion, Mrs. Trover was well respected by students and colleagues alike.

"Many students thought very highly of her — in fact, they worshipped the ground she walked on," said Chief Paul.

But cops say the 37-year-old teacher nursed a dark secret: She'd been cheating on her husband John, 43, for years — and was planning to kill him.

"Her motive was to get out of her marriage," explained Chief Paul. "She knew that if she got divorced, the children would want to stay with their father. And she was the kind of lady who couldn't stand to lose."

The investigation into the bizarre crime began last November in the wee hours of the morning, after motorists found the teacher stark naked and covered with bruises in a roadside ditch, near her burning car. Shivering and hysterical, she said her kids were back at her house, tied up.

The police were summoned and Cheryl gave them an account of a horrific home invasion.

"She stated that around 11:30 the night before, a man came to her house and started an argument with her husband about layoffs at the coal mine, where John was an accountant," said the Chief.

As she watched in horror, the masked mystery man beat, shot and stabbed her husband to death. Her children were tied up in a bedroom, she said — then came the worst part. "She said that the assailant forced her to strip completely nude, then sexually assaulted her," said Chief Paul.

After the degrading attack, Mrs. Trover told cops, she was abducted in the couple's own pickup.

"She said she was driven to the city limits, but she managed to open the passenger door and escape," the lawman said. "She said the assailant then set her vehicle on fire and fled."

At first, Cheryl's version of events seemed to hold water. Even doctors who examined her were initially convinced that she'd been raped. "There was evidence of penetration, but it was later determined that those injuries were self-inflicted," said the Chief.

As cops probed the case, the woman's story quickly began to unravel.

"For one thing, there had been a heavy snowfall, but there were no tracks indicating that anyone other than her had fled the vehicle," said Chief Paul.

A search of the house revealed some suspicious items, he added. "There were several books about murder — plus a 1,000-piece 'How to Murder Your Husband' jigsaw puzzle."

But the most damning evidence came from police interviews with Cheryl's own kids.

"They said the voice of the person in the mask sounded like 'Mom using her man voice' and the nose, which was exposed, looked just like their mother's nose," revealed the Chief.

More bad news came for Cheryl when she learned that cops had located the murder weapon, a .22-caliber handgun. "She was concerned her prints would be found on the gun," said the lawman.

Just two days after killing her husband, Cheryl borrowed a rifle and used it to blow herself away.

She had murdered her husband in cold blood!

Men who marry ugly women live 12 years longer than those who don't

. . . says Yale study

By RANDY JEFFRIES / Weekly World News

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — A new study shows that men who marry ugly women live an average of 12 years longer than men who marry beauties!

Researchers at Yale University followed the medical histories of 3,519 married men, noting the age at which they died. They showed the men's old wedding photographs to a panel of male college students and asked them to rate the wives' looks from one to 20 — the more beautiful the woman the higher the score.

Researchers found that women whose looks ranked 14 or higher were widowed at an alarmingly early age, while the homely women's husbands lived well up into their 80s and 90s.

The findings come as no surprise to noted psychologist Dr. Edgar Dabblen, whose specialty is human stress and its causes.

"Jealousy is a highly stressful emotion," said Dr. Dabblen. "And men with gorgeous wives live in a constant state of it. Everywhere they go they see other men scheming and lusting after their women. They know that if they slip up — if they displease their women even slightly — there are 100 other men waiting to jump in and take their places.

Dr. Edgar Dabblen

"And the attractive wives are well aware of this dynamic. They often use it to gain leverage with their husbands. For instance, if the husband won't take out the garbage, the pretty wife might say, 'I bet Joe Blow would take it out for me.' And the husband gets the message.

"On the other hand, if an ugly woman says, 'Take out the trash,' the husband can just sit on the couch and say, 'Do it yourself.' This response, when done repeatedly, can add years to his life.

"Over the years, men with pretty spouses do about 80 percent more stressful errands around the house — like mowing the lawn, making home repairs, lifting heavy things into the attic and even doing housework like washing dishes and vacuuming the carpet."

Dr. Dabblen, 41, stops short of advising men to marry ugly women. "We have to marry for love, not so that we can live longer," he points out.

"But if you do marry an attractive woman, just be aware of the facts and be willing to pay the price."

WOULD YOU MARRY a hideous looking woman to add years to your life?

The season of birth influences a child's height!

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — A person's height may depend on the season in which he or she was born — with those born in the spring or fall likely to grow taller than those born in the winter or summer!

That's the fascinating finding of researchers who studied more than a million people around the world. They discovered that men born in the spring or fall grew to an average of nearly three inches taller than men born in winter or summer.

Women born in the spring or fall grew to an average of more than an inch taller than women born in the summer or winter.

Researchers can't explain their findings, but they believe environmental factors may play a role.

Successful diet is a matter of timing

. . . says top psychologist

There are good times to begin a diet — and there are bad times, says a weight-loss expert.

Knowing when to start shedding extra pounds is vital if you expect to succeed, explains psychologist Dr. Elior Kinarthy.

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

"A good time to begin a diet is when dieting can be a high priority in your life. A bad time is when much of your energy and concentration is distracted," says Dr. Kinarthy, author of the book Psychological Aspects of Weight Control.

Here are the five worst times to start a diet, he says:

1. On vacation. "Vacations break up your food routine and make it very difficult to control what and how much you eat."

2. When you've made a major change in your life. "A major change is stressful and energy-draining, and there's not enough energy left to devote to your diet."

3. When you've just ended an important relationship, such as breaking up with a spouse or lover. "This also is stressful, and you don't need to add the stress of dieting."

4. When someone else wants you to. "Your heart won't be in it. You might even feel rebellious and end up eating more."

5. When there's a family crisis. "If your spouse has just lost his job or your father is in the hospital, your energies are channeled elsewhere. Don't diet until your crisis is over."

Here are the five best times to diet, according to Dr. Kinarthy:

1. When you want to look good for a special occasion. "Suppose, for example, your high school reunion is coming up. This will give you good motivation to slim down."

2. When you've just received some good news, such as a raise. "Your good news creates a positive attitude — and having a positive attitude is essential for successful dieting."

3. When you need to buy new clothes. "Buy your outfits a size too small, then think about how great you'll look wearing them."

4. When you make another change in your appearance, such as a new haircut or hairstyle. "You think of yourself as a new you. You feel more confident, which is wonderful for being successful on a diet."

5. When life is calm. "If things are going well on your job and your relationships are stable, there's little stress in your life — and you're able to concentrate your energy on your diet."

Couples with the same sleep cycle have a longer, happier marriage!

Couples who fall asleep and wake up together stay together!

That's the word from Provo, Utah, family and marriage therapist Dr. Jeffery Larson, who conducted a study of 150 couples and found that those who share the same sleep-wake cycle had longer, happier marriages and better sex lives and fought less than those who went to bed and woke up at different times.

Prospective parents opting for 'smart' eggs

Infertile couples who want genius babies paying Ivy League coeds big bucks for their eggs!

TALK ABOUT 'GRADE A'!

By MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

PRINCETON, N.J. — In a desperate bid to have genius children, wealthy infertile couples have been shelling out big bucks to Ivy League coeds — to buy their egg cells!

Brainy gals at top colleges like Harvard, Yale and Princeton can now rake in up to $10,000 a pop, by donating eggs surgically removed from their ovaries!

The procedure is used in cases where the wife can't produce eggs herself, but has a normally functioning uterus.

The "smart eggs" from the donor are fertilized in a lab with sperm from the husband, then implanted in the wife's womb. Nine months later, if all goes according to plan, the wife gives birth to a bouncing baby with a sky-high I.Q.

In the past, would-be parents usually sought out egg donors who were ideal physical specimens — attractive, athletic women. But today, experts say, the demand is for women who carry genes for intelligence.

"Couples now scrutinize a prospective donor's college transcript, checking the marks," said a fertility industry insider. "They're looking strictly for 'Grade A' eggs."

As a result, blonde cheerleaders with perfect teeth are calculus are in. Even significant health problems such as asthma, allergies, nearsightedness and heart defects are overlooked in the scramble for high-I.Q. genes.

Brainy girls from Harvard, Princeton and Yale getting $10,000 a pop!

"Many parents are willing to be more flexible on the health history than on academic achievements and signs of intelligence," Teri Royal, director of the Los Angeles-based OPTIONS National Fertility Registry, said in an interview.

Advertising managers at Ivy League campus newspapers say there's been a major upsurge in next Albert Einstein or Bill Gates spent more than $15,000 advertising at top schools for an egg donor. The "egghead" coeds say that making the donations is a great way to help defray skyrocketing tuition costs at the prestigious colleges.

And couples who've used the approach are also delighted.

One family, who asked not to be identified, chose a donor who was getting straight A's in college and boasts an I.Q. of 160 — well into the genius range. They say their son, now two, is already reading at grade-school level.

"Our boy is brilliant," the proud father declared. "We set out to have a genius baby — and by golly, we did."

7 WARNING SIGNS THAT YOUR CAR IS ABOUT TO CROAK!

Your car has seven warning signals to alert you to serious mechanical problems — and you could face hefty repair bills if you ignore those signals, experts say.

Here are the warning signs, what they mean, and what car care specialists say you should do about them.

1 The oil pressure light comes on while the engine is running. This could mean "your oil is low," or there's an oil leak or an oil pump breakdown.

Whatever the problem, shut off the car immediately. Then check the dipstick to see how much oil is in the engine. If it's low and you add oil, then the warning light shouldn't stay on after you restart the car. If it does, shut off the engine again and have your car towed in for service.

2 The temperature indicator — either a gauge or warning light — shows the engine is overheating. This can mean a shortage of coolant in the radiator, or a broken fan belt or a thermostat that is not working. When you get an overheat warning, pull to the side of the road, turn off the engine and open the hood so cooling air can get at the engine.

Always wait at least 30 minutes before you open the radiator cap, and use a rag or glove to protect yourself from escaping steam. In an emergency, you can drive to a garage after adding water to the radiator. But if the indicator shows you're overheating again, you'll have to stop and repeat the cooling procedure.

3 Dashboard warning lights don't flash on briefly when you start the engine. The flash of lights is a test of the warning system.

If it doesn't work, have it checked by a mechanic.

4 Unusual odors from under the hood or inside the car. The strong smell of gasoline could signal a broken fuel line or a leaking fuel pump — both serious fire hazards. The smell of burning plastic could mean that there's a short circuit in the wiring that's causing the plastic insulation to burn — another fire risk. Check with your mechanic as soon as possible if you smell something unusual.

5 Continuous screeching or clunking sound while driving. The screech of metal on metal generally signals worn brakes. And worn wheel bearings makes a grinding noise as you drive around curves or corners. And a clunking noise or a squeak may mean a bad universal joint.

6 Shimmies or shakes in the steering. These can be caused by poorly balanced tires, improper alignment of the wheels or worn-out shock absorbers. Steering shimmies and shakes can cause problems and they should be checked by a mechanic.

7 Drips under the car. Puddles of fluid can be an overflow of water condensing from your car's air conditioner, or leaks of coolant or oil, brake, power steering or power transmission fluid or even gasoline. The color of the fluid can give a clue to what's leaking. For example, coolant is usually green, transmission and power steering fluid is pinkish in color, and engine oil is amber. Gasoline has a distinctive smell. If you can find out what's leaking, check the reservoir for that fluid to see how much you're losing — if it's a lot, call your mechanic.

ANIMAL SUPERSTARS

By SUSAN JIMISON / Weekly World News

Meet the champion of ALL

World-class animals have their own world titles, published in a fascinating book called the Guinness Book of Pet Records.

Just as in the Guinness Book of World Records for people, the pet version features superachievers — the smallest, the largest, the most fertile, etc. Here are some of the most phenomenal creatures listed in the book:

CAT WITH WORLD'S LONGEST TAIL

The tail king is a male cat named "Pinky" of Southgate, England. This prodigious puss has a tail that measures 14 inches from stem to stern.

LARGEST CHICKEN EVER

The most robust rooster on record was a giant 22-pound fellow named "Weirdo." The bird was so big and bad that he crippled a dog, killed two cats and tore through wire fences like they were lace.

TALLEST DOG ON RECORD

The title goes to a Great Dane named "Shamgret Danzas" of Milton Keynes, England, who measured an amazing 41½ inches at the shoulders and stood 6 feet, 9 inches tall on his hind legs.

OLDEST DOG

While most dogs live to a ripe old age of 8 to 15 years, world record holder "Bluey" of Rochester, Australia, lived a whopping 29 years, 5 months.

SMALLEST HORSE

The tiniest horse ever recorded was a teensy mare bred by Argentinian Julio Falabella which measured 15 inches in height and weighed only 26 pounds.

WORLD'S RICHEST CANARY

The honor goes to a female named "Gigi," who inherited $250,000 from her mistress. The bird died at the age of 15 in 1967.

THE LARGEST PET SNAKE

Owned by Adrian Nyoka of Knaresborough, England, the world's largest pet snake was a monster female python named "Cassius" that measured 25 feet, 6 inches when she died in 1988. She weighed 240 pounds.

HEAVIEST HORSE

The title goes to a Belgian stallion named "Brooklyn Supreme" of Minneapolis, Minn., who attained a peak weight of over 3,200 pounds. Just one of the horse's shoes weighed 7½ pounds. The animal died in 1948.

WORLD CHAMPION JUMPING FROG

By far the biggest bounder ever was a leggy dude named "Davey Croakett," who won the Calaveras Jumping Jubilee in Calipets time!

BIGGEST TOAD

The grand champ is a giant guy named "Jabba," who tips the scales at a whopping 4 pounds, 12 ounces. Jabba lives in Miami, Florida.

LARGEST MOUSE LITTER

A female mouse produced a record-setting litter of 34 in February 1982.

MOST FAMOUS GOLDFISH

The most celebrated goldfish ever was a red, white and blue creature named "Miss Liberty" that made a national sensation when she toured the USA promoting the sale of Liberty Bonds during World War II. The Black Moor was valued at $5,000.

GUINNESS BOOK OF WORLD RECORDS

OLDEST CAT

A tabby named "Ma" from Drewsteignton, England, lived for 34 years, 5 months — far beyond the expected feline life span of 16 to 19 years. What's more, the ancient tabby didn't die naturally — she had to be put down because of health problems!

MOST IMPRESSIVE LOVER

A type of gerbil called the Shaw's Jird is well-known for its love-making prowess. One 60-gram male was observed to mate a stunning 224 times in just one hour!

MOST FERTILE RABBIT

A New Zealand White rabbit owned by Joseph Filck of Sydney, Nova Scotia, Canada, gave birth in 1978 to a record busting litter of 24 little ones.

SMALLEST DOG ON RECORD

The world champ is a bitsy beast called "Yorkie" that measured 2½ inches at the shoulder and 3¾ inches from the tip of his nose to the base of his tail. The pint-size pooch weighed an infinitesimal 4 ounces! He died in 1945.

GERM WARFARE HORROR!

MOSCOW — The Russians have a secret type of germ warfare capable of making the human heart beat so fast that the organ literally explodes — and they're selling thousands of gallons of the dreadful toxin to Iraq!

By RANDY JEFFRIES
Weekly World News

Russians develop nightmare virus that makes human heart beat 1,000 times a minute — until it...

EXPLODES!

The horrific compound contains the highly contagious Marburg virus which attacks and destroys every organ, cell and tissue in the body — painfully and slowly. In the last stages, the heart races to 1,000 beats per minute and finally bursts.

The rapacious germs are spread by missiles and bombs. But they can also be transferred from one victim to another by touch or in the air.

Experts say it's just a matter of time before Iraqi terrorists begin using it against the United States.

And once it's released into the atmosphere, it will spread like wildfire, infecting and killing millions.

Russian scientist Dr. Ivan Brodaskov helped develop the deadly strain — and it's the greatest regret of his life.

"We developed the Marburg virus in the 1980s, just before the end of the cold war between America and Russia," said Dr. Brodaskov.

"We knew we had something very strong but we didn't know how strong until we began testing it on animals. It was a nightmare. I never saw such total and prolonged agony as I saw in those dogs and mice. For 48 hours, they alternated between deep sleep and frantic wakefulness. Then they writhed in pain for up to 36 hours.

"They bled from their eyes and ears. Their brains began to liquefy.

"Finally their hearts began racing, reaching 14 times their normal rate until they exploded. "The same thing will happen to human beings.

"Once I saw the horrible power of this virus, I immediately recommended it be destroyed. But the government overruled me and ordered it to be stored in a facility in Kazakstan."

Dr. Brodaskov later defected to Germany. But his friends, still in the Russian defense program, say the Marburg virus is being secretly sold to Iraq and Libya.

"I shudder to think of what may happen as Iraqi terrorists begin to use the Marburg in retaliation for the recent bombing of their country by the American military," says Dr. Brodaskov.

Has Russia kept germ warfare alive?

By JUDITH MILLER and WILLIAM J. BROAD
New York Times

Just as the Soviet Union was ending its confrontation with the West in the late 1980s, the military officers who ran Moscow's secret germ warfare program ordered up new, much deadlier arms.

At a remote laboratory complex in Kazakstan, Russian scientists began several years of the Marburg virus, a highly contagious germ that kills by attacking every organ and tissue in the body.

The Soviets were developing compounds that

CITY FOLKS EXERCISE MORE THAN THEIR COUNTRY COUSINS!

Although it's no surprise that rural people spend less time golfing than their big city cousins, it is fascinating to learn that people in metropolitan areas actually do more walking and gardening than country people.

HOW TO GET OTHER PEOPLE TO LIKE YOU — EVEN IF THEY HATE YOUR GUTS!

We all want other people to like us. But not everyone knows how to go about making it happen.

By KELLY TURNER
Weekly World News

Here, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, author of The Power of Positive Thinking, lists 10 practical rules for winning the esteem of others — even if they hate you. He says the soundness of these principles has been demonstrated innumerable times and that if you practice them and you become enough people will like you.

1. Learn to remember names. A man's name is very important to him.

2. Be a comfortable person so there is no strain in being with you.

3. Acquire the quality of relaxed easygoingness so that things do not ruffle you.

4. Don't be egotistical. Guard against giving the impression that you know it all.

5. Cultivate the quality of being interesting so that people will want to be with you and get something of stimulating value from their association with you.

6. Remove the "scratchy" elements from your personality.

7. Sincerely attempt to heal, on an honest Christian basis, every misunderstanding you have had or now have.

8. Practice liking people until you learn to do so genuinely.

9. Never miss an opportunity to say a word of congratulation upon anyone's achievement, or express sympathy in sorrow or disappointment.

10. Acquire a deep spiritual experience so that you have something to give people that will help them to be stronger and meet life more effectively. And remember that whomever you help to build up and become a better person will give you undying devotion.

Build up as many people as you can because you like them and see possibilities in them.

Preacher sues surgeons for extracting his soul!

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — A clergyman is suing surgeons for "extracting his soul" during a heart operation!

Rev. Arthur Cornwall has complained that since his cardiac surgery, he's lost enthusiasm for running his church and feels his sermons are now "shoddy" and "uninspired."

The lawsuit alleges that the doctors are "enemies of Christ" who removed the Holy Spirit from Cornwall's body.

MINISTER claims surgeons cut out his soul as depicted in this artist's conception.

Q Now that Paul McCartney's wife Linda is dead, I hope the former Beatle won't just mope around, and will start to date again. What about those rumors that he's got something going with Renee Zellweger, that young cutie-pie actress who starred opposite Tom Cruise in Jerry Maguire?
— Denise S., London, England

DOES cutesy actress Renee Zellweger, right, have a crush on Paul McCartney?

A Paul, 56, and Renee, 28, aren't involved romantically, although the pretty blonde admits she has had a crush on the famed "cute Beatle" since childhood. "There was something about his eyes and his dark hair that really knocked me out," she revealed. "I probably still am in love with Paul McCartney." Part of the attraction: His amazing resemblance to another fantasy boyfriend of her youth, lead lanky cartoon hero Speed Racer. "Speed Racer was such a babe," she gushed.

Q I am a devout Christian and I am also a big fan of country music — real country, not this new garbage. So I was horrified to hear that one of my favorites, Willie Nelson, says that he already knows he's going to Hell. Why is he so sure he's been damned?
— Jim G., Louisville, Ky.

HELL BOUND: Willie Nelson.

A The country music legend says he boarded the express elevator to Satan's dwelling ages ago. "I was doomed to go to Hell by the time I was 7," Willie revealed. "I had been told that if you smoke cigarettes and drink beer, you're going to Hell. And by 7, I was gone!"

WHERE Alec Baldwin goes — his brothers follow!

A Nope, the rest of the Baldwin clan followed big brother Alec into showbiz because they saw him getting rich and famous and decided acting couldn't be all that hard.

"It wasn't until Alec started making a lot of money that we said, 'We oughta try and get into this business,'" Stephen Baldwin admits.

— Dina K., Springfield, Ill.

A Prince — I mean The Artist, formerly known as The Artist Formerly Known as Prince — is splitting up with his mate Mayte. But don't worry, it's only a legal technicality.

The couple plan to end their marriage on Valentine's Day, their third wedding anniversary — then they'll tie the knot again, but this time only in a nonlegal, completely symbolic way, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The maverick music-maker reportedly cooked up the bizarre annulment plan to show his contempt for ordinary marriages based on legalities.

Hey, different strokes for different folks, right?

Q My favorite comedian of all time is Milton Berle. I grew up watching his TV show and after my own father died in the war, I used to fantasize about him being my dad.

I've never seen much about his private life. Is he much of a family man in real life?
— Joe B., St. Cloud, Minn.

FUNNYMAN Milton Berle, above, passed his hand-me-down theories to his son Bill Berle, below.

A Uncle Miltie was no Ward Cleaver, if you ask the comedian's son Bill Berle — who says that Milton tricked him into losing his virginity to a paid floozy at an early age.

The cigar-chomping comedian hired a showgirl to disguise herself as a maid and seduce the young man, according to a recent book by Bill.

Later on, Bill claims, when Milton and his son shared hotel suites, the funnyman would finish having sex with a woman — and then shout into the younger Berle's room, "Billy, you want her now?"

DEAD SEA SCROLLS PREDICT 2ND GREAT DEPRESSION — IN 1999!

WASHINGTON — America is on the verge of a devastating economic collapse far worse than the Great Depression of 1929!

Millions of people with jobs that seem secure and savings that seem protected will find themselves — overnight — freezing on the streets, starving like dogs.

That's the alarming word from noted economist and Bible scholar Dr. Frieda Rastelle, who cites passages from the Dead Sea Scrolls, the Bible and other religious writings to support her terrifying claims.

"The coming crisis will strike in May or June of 1999," said Dr. Rastelle. "The government is afraid for the public to know how bad it's going to be.

"And the people who feel the most secure — the ones with lucrative jobs, health insurance, 401(k)s and retirement plans — will be hit the hardest because they'll be the least able to adapt."

In 1979, Dr. Rastelle earned her master's degree in economics. She worked in an advisory capacity with several major lending institutions before turning her considerable talents to Bible prophecy in 1991.

"I was astonished at how accurately the Dead Sea Scrolls had predicted the Great Depression of 1929," she says.

"Although, of course, the Qumran texts don't use the word 'depression,' they definitely say, in no uncertain terms, that the world's most powerful nation would suffer horrific hunger, joblessness and poverty — and that it would begin 1,929 years after Christ's birth.

"Since the scrolls were so on-target with the 1929 depression, I was curious to see if they might say something about any future economic collapse.

"Amazingly — sadly — they do predict another breakdown, a far worse one than the first."

In her book The 2nd Great Depression, Dr. Rastelle quotes the Dead Sea Scrolls, the Old and New Testaments and other Judeo-Christian writings to support these terrifying predictions:

ECONOMIST Dr. Frieda Rastelle.

● In a newly discovered chapter of Paul's letter to the Romans, he says, "Silver coins will become as worthless as ashes 1,999 years after the Day of our Savior. And many will starve and die."

● The second Great Depression will begin suddenly, and the wealthy will be unable to adjust. "As a fall from a cliff, so will be the descent of the rich from their station," says one ancient version of the Book of Lamech.

And the Book of Matthew backs up the passage by saying, "Many who are first will be last."

● Several Dead Sea Scrolls advise against saving money in banks because, even before the money itself loses all its value, the institutions that invest and keep the money will close.

"Do not lay up for yourselves treasure on Earth," says Matthew, Chapter Six. "But lay up treasures in Heaven."

● A billion people will be penniless. Dr. Rastelle says rich people are already stockpiling food and cash in preparation.

● Crime and chaos will run rampant. The world will be in the hands of the most vicious and violent people.

It will remain in their hands until Christ returns at the end of the age and, as Matthew, Chapter Five, promises: "The meek . . . shall inherit the Earth."

AMERICA'S RICHEST men will be selling apples on the streets after American banks and other financial institutions collapse and leave them penniless.

Hillary bares bottom in outrageous designer dress

PHOTOS © 1998 WEEKLY WORLD NEWS

By MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a bold move to shed her matronly image, First Lady Hillary Clinton is poised to attend a formal state dinner in a daring designer dress that leaves her entire buttocks exposed!

And already, startling photos that appear to show Mrs. Clinton modeling the shocking dress are being privately circulated on Capitol Hill.

Aides to the First Lady say the dramatic step is aimed at changing Hillary's public persona from that of a drab, cold-hearted drudge into one of a classy sex symbol much like Jackie Kennedy.

"Mrs. Clinton was humiliated when the President publicly admitted cheating on her with a 22-year-old intern," a reliable White House source explained.

"She was convinced that the American people saw her as unattractive, sexless and over-the-hill — and she became determined to change that once and for all."

Find out what's 'behind' First Lady's bold new look!

Shortly after the Monica Lewinsky sex scandal broke last year, Hillary embarked on a grueling diet and exercise regimen. And the hard work has paid off, according to aides.

"Gone are those 'tree-trunk' calves, thunder-thighs and that infamous blubbery butt," said the source. "The First Lady now has a body that would put many a 25-year-old aerobics instructor to shame.

"She's especially proud of her taut, well-shaped bottom and she's eager to show it off."

The rump-revealing evening gown is similar to an Yves St. Laurent design introduced recently on the runways of Paris.

"The demure front combined with the revealing back has a very exciting effect," said French fashion editor Armand Gerard. "Of course, it is a very difficult dress to wear, but with the kind of shape Mrs. Clinton is in, she will certainly be able to carry it off."

Hillary is planning to wear the butt-baring gown at an upcoming state dinner — despite a frantic behind-the-scenes administration campaign to talk her out of it. White House aides have been discouraging the First Lady from wearing the cheeky outfit in public, warning that "the people may think she's gone bonkers."

But hard-headed Hillary won't be dissuaded and is said to be "rearing" to go.

Republican lawmakers who've seen pictures of the dress are delighted and can't wait till Hillary flaunts the First Fanny at the upcoming gala, which will be televised internationally.

"This is going to be a major public relation's disaster," a top GOP strategist predicted gleefully. "The American people want dignity in the White House — they simply don't want to see their First Lady with her butt hanging out, whether she has

CHINA IS A NATION OF SPOILED BRATS, SAYS NEW STUDY!

China's one-child-per-family policy has had an unexpected repercussion — the one child that parents are allowed is turning out to be a spoiled-rotten "monster," say observers.

"The Chinese — traditionally accustomed to having large families — dote on the single child. The result is that the new crop of Chinese kids are fast becoming a generation of spoiled brats," said a China-based journalist. "They are nicknamed the 'Little Emperors,' and you can spot them right away on just about any street in any Chinese city.

"They stand out like peacocks. In China, nearly everyone dresses in standard-issue blue denim or slate-gray baggy outfits — but not these kids. They strut down the street in Western designer jeans, brightly colored Western shirts and Adidas sneakers — clothes that, by Chinese wage standards, have set somebody back a fortune."

China launched its one-child-per-family policy in 1979 in an attempt to stop runaway population growth. Since then, 40 percent of the children born have been only children — and their families have been unwittingly turning them into brats, say experts.

"When there's just one child, the parents give him anything he wants and the grandparents dote on him," noted John Aird, former senior research specialist for China with the U.S. Census Bureau.

Says China expert K.C. Tseng, a Chinese reporter:

"You hear some really bizarre stories about the antics of these only children. One mother told me: 'My son sticks his tongue out at rice and demands candy instead. Frequently he throws a temper tantrum at mealtimes.'

"A family counselor told me: 'You can imagine how puzzled the parents feel. They grew up at a time when having a belly full of rice was all they wanted. Now these brats are using precious food as weapons to display their anger and get what they want. What the parents don't realize is that they've created this little monster by giving him everything he wants.'"

Added reporter Tseng: "In China, parents are used to dealing with children who are well-behaved, unselfish and very respectful of their elders.

"But these only children are just the opposite — they're selfish, whining monsters. And God only knows what trouble they're going to make once they grow up."

Collectors race "full steam ahead" to get the new Titanic stamps.

Titanic Post Office Issue!

"Unsinkable" Collector Demand For Hot New Postage Stamps

Kingstown, St. Vincent — Titanic enthusiasts and stamp collectors are suddenly scrambling to obtain a Limited Edition, 5 Stamp set that has been issued by the Post Office of St. Vincent to commemorate the greatest civilian maritime tragedy ever.

"Collector demand for these stamps has been unbelievable," stated John Van Emden of the International Collectors Society, worldwide distributor of the stamps. "Over eight decades after her demise, the Titanic remains a constant source of fascinating fact and legend. Collectors now have what may be their only opportunity to get Official government issued legal tender stamps honoring the Titanic. In fact, we're nearly sold out!"

Collectors are already predicting that in the very near future these stamps will be far more sought after and be more desirable than the Elvis stamp, the most popular issue of all time.

"Over 500 million Elvis stamps have been issued. When you compare that to these Titanic stamps, which are limited to just thousands of sets worldwide, you can see the irresistible appeal that these stamps have to stamp collectors and Titanic enthusiasts," added Van Emden.

Each of the five stamps is about four times the size of a regular U.S. postage stamp. They're legal for postage in St. Vincent and are recognized by every postal authority around the world.

Gotta have 'em? They're available for a short time at $9.95 (plus $3 postage and handling) for the complete set of five different stamps, accompanied by an individually numbered ICS Certificate of Authenticity and the free pocket guide, "99 Little Known Facts About The Titanic." The most you can buy is six sets. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back. Send your check or money order to ICS, 3600 Crondall Lane, Suite 100WWWTT, Owings

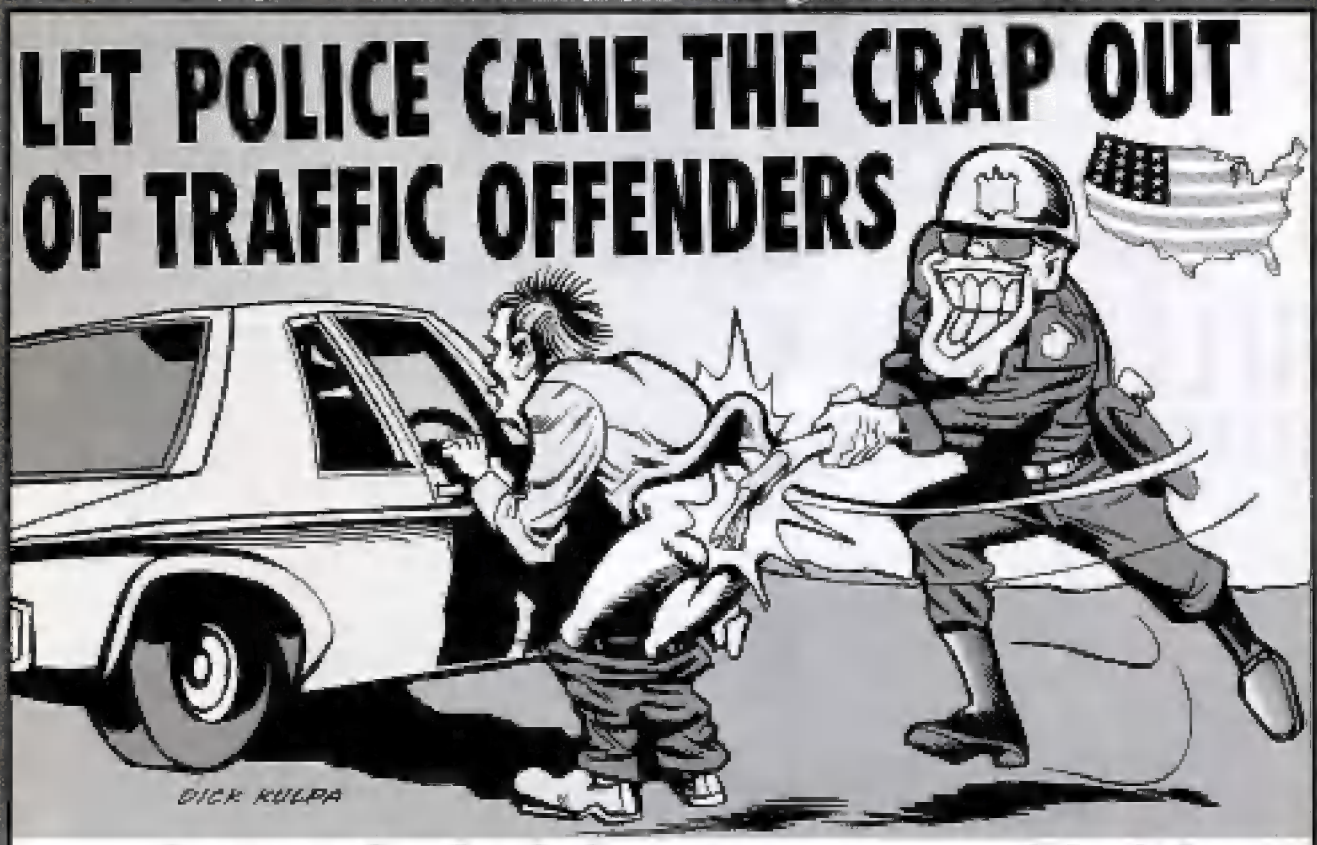
LET POLICE CANE THE CRAP OUT OF TRAFFIC OFFENDERS



. . . instead of giving 'em a stupid ticket!

I'm madder than a brain surgeon after missing a putt that all the lily-livered liberals are screaming bloody murder over a new law being considered in Washington.

This great new legislation would let traffic violators choose between taking a whipping right there on the spot or getting the traditional ticket.

Lawmakers who are sponsoring the bill got the idea from Malaysian Police Inspector General Abdul Rahim Noor.

Mr. Noor lets police cane speeders, drunk drivers or red-light runners instead of sticking the poor scum with high-priced traffic tickets.

The cane is a whip-like stick that hurts like hell — the same kind of thing that American brat Michael Faye got lashed with in Singapore a few years ago for painting graffiti all over the place.

Anyway, I think it's a great idea. So urge your congresaman to vote for this new law the first chance he gets!

Stupid Chinese skinning millions of dogs — to make fur coats!

I'm madder than my English Bullterrier at a cat show over reports that those yellow-bellied, buck-toothed, chow mein-eating Chinese are killing millions of dogs every year for their fur!

That's right, folks. Every time you see one of those fur-trimmed coats that airhead women like to wear, you're looking at some cute little puppy that's been skinned — probably while it was still alive, says the shocking report.

Well, I think I've got an answer for those yellow-devil dog-killers — let's grind up about two million Chinese men, women and children and make doggie chew bones out of 'em.

And while we're at it, we could make raincoats for our pets out of human skin — Chinese human skin.

You can learn a lot from the experience, says expert

Don't let supernatural experiences frighten or baffle you, a top psychic says: With a few easy tips you can learn to interpret these occurrences and benefit from your brush with the Beyond.

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

"When people have a psychic vision, see an apparition or experience ESP, they panic and think it's all beyond their reasoning — but these events can be understood," said psychic Clarisa Bernhardt.

Here are her tips on handling the supernatural in a natural way:

Don't be afraid: "Psychic experiences are normal and common," says Mrs. Bernhardt. "People don't realize they come from an undeveloped and underused sense we all have."

Don't brush psychic experiences aside: For example, you see the ghost of your mother. Listen and ask yourself what she's trying to tell you. Something may have to be resolved in your life — or she may be telling you she knows you're thinking of her.

Don't take all psychic messages literally: They may be symbolic. If you have a vision someone's about to die, it doesn't usually mean the person is in danger. The psychic message may just be a way to get you to turn your attention to that person.

Combine psychic experiences with facts: An ESP feeling that tells you to invest in a gold mine shouldn't make you spend your life's savings.

"Many financial wizards listen to their hunches, but final decisions are usually based on more than just a feeling — so combine them with hard facts," advised Mrs. Bernhardt.

Don't discuss your psychic experience with just anyone: "It creates negativity by telling someone who's skeptical.

"Say your boss is not a believer. You can draw criticism to yourself if you tell him about a ghost you saw.

"If you're upset, find an understanding person to talk to."

Develop and fine-tune your psychic sense: "Write experiences down and since many happen in dreams, have a pencil near your bed," says Mrs. Bernhardt. "Otherwise it can be unclear later.

"If it's a prediction, it should happen within about three weeks.

"Listen to your subconscious and you'll have additional experiences. The more you use your psychic sense, the more it will be a normal part of your everyday life."

IF YOU'RE FEELING OUT OF STEP OR IRRITABLE . . .

RESETTING YOUR 'BODY CLOCK' WILL HELP YOU GET MORE OUT OF LIFE!

You can learn to understand your "body clock" and spend more time enjoying life, according to family practitioner Dr. Edwin Matlin.

Have you ever wondered why there are certain times when you are inefficient, grouchy or irritable?

It has to do with changes in your body rhythm.

Circadian rhythm — or body rhythm — is your body clock. It tells you when to work and when to sleep.

In the last 10 years science has begun to explore body rhythm factors — and to prove that some of us are "night people" and others are "day people."

We all like to think we're consistent — the same person 24 hours a day — but actually we experience upswing and downswing cycles of alertness.

And if, for some reason, body rhythms are disrupted, they often require days before fully realigning with new time settings.

By RICHARD STRONG
Weekly World News

For example, jet passengers flying from California to New York will lose three hours sleep due to the time difference.

Veteran jet travelers have learned they can avoid prolonged drowsiness by getting to bed early the first couple of nights after their journey.

They have learned to adjust their body clocks.

If you take notice, there are certain points in the day when you reach peak efficiency.

You're able to concentrate, read, and accomplish more work regardless of distractions. This is the upswing — the alert period. Mounting evidence indicates our waking hours are spent in roughly 90-minute swings from alert to relaxed.

Thus, it's wise for each of us to try to "tune in" to our body clocks to determine at what point we are at maximum efficiency. Then we can take advantage of this knowledge in picking the right times to make our business and social contacts.

In short, we can learn to do things that are important to us when we are at our best. We can learn how to get more out of life. Here are some ways to go about it:

● Learn to recognize the periods during the day that you feel best. If possible, do things that are important to you during these times.

● Distinguish your upswings from your downswings by keeping a daily record.

You can even keep a graph on a calendar noting your good periods and bad periods for the whole month.

● Try not to disrupt your regular sleeping rhythms — whether you're a night sleeper or a day sleeper. It's been found that when your regular sleep rhythm is disturbed, you tend to become irritable and function less efficiently.

● Don't fight a downswing — a period when you suddenly find yourself unable to concentrate.

It's best at this time to doze off for five minutes or to just relax briefly. You'll find yourself returning to work at maximum efficiency.

MAN HUGS PREGNANT WIFE SO HARD IT KILLS THEIR BABY!

MEDICAL SHOCKER IN CHICAGO

By IRWIN FISHER / Weekly World News

CHICAGO — An overly affectionate man hugged his pregnant wife so hard that he killed their unborn baby!

Thirty-two-year-old Paul Jagerman and his wife Catherine had been trying to have children since they married back in 1988.

"Why couldn't it have been me? Why couldn't I be the one to die?" a distraught Jagerman told Weekly World News.

"That baby meant more to us than anything in the world. Now he's gone. I don't know if I'll ever get over what I've done."

The tragic drama unfolded when Jagerman got home from a business trip and rushed to Catherine's arms. In his excitement, Jagerman lifted his wife, then four months pregnant, off her feet.

Catherine said she felt a sharp pain in her abdomen and told him to put her down. He instantly did so, but the damage was done.

"My stomach hurt terribly," said Catherine, 31. "Paul rushed me to the hospital, but it was too late. I had lost the baby."

Doctors believe the force of Jagerman's hug caused the placenta to separate from the wall of the uterus. This is called an abruption and can cause instant death for the fetus.

No charges will be filed against Jagerman or his wife.

Police are calling the death of the baby "an awful accident" and say the Jagermans have suffered enough.

"My heart really goes out to them," said one investigating officer. "They tried for 11 years to have a baby. They finally got one and killed it."

The Jagermans say they will try to have another baby.

"But we're going to be more careful next time," Catherine said.

You don't hear much about banana soup anymore but years ago it was popular all over the world — in fact, it was General Ulysses S. Grant's favorite delicacy!

The long-forgotten treat was usually served at room temperature, according to an 1863 cookbook. Here's a modernized recipe:

BANANA SOUP

2 bananas, sliced
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons honey
1 cup water
1 cup milk
ice cubes

Mix bananas, lemon juice and honey in blender and mix until honey is dissolved. Add milk and ice cubes and blend well. Makes one serving.

HEART ATTACKS HIT WOMEN HARDEST, NEW STUDY SAYS!

Heart attacks are no fun for anyone. But new research reveals that they're much worse for women than they are for men!

The Journal of the American Medical Association reports that women are twice as likely to suffer a severe heart attack as men.

Women run a 72 percent greater chance of death after a heart attack. And 23 percent more women than men wind up back in the hospital after suffering an attack.

NEW MOM JAILED IN NORWAY — BECAUSE OF WHAT SHE NAMED HER BABY!

Mother jailed in name dispute

OSLO, Norway — A mother of 14 was jailed this week because she refused to change the name she picked for her young son, a name that violated Norway's name law.

Kirsti Larsen, 46, told the Verdens newspaper that she named [illegible] after she dreamed [illegible] be named

NEWSPAPERS around the world picked up on this bizarre story.

By KEVIN CREED / Weekly World News

OSLO, Norway — The mother of a baby boy has been jailed and is facing up to five years in prison — because the government doesn't like the name she picked for her child!

Incredibly, here in Norway, the government issues a list of acceptable names for children. Parents must, by law, call their newborns by one of the names on the list.

But loving mother Kirsti Larsen has given her son the name Gesher, which is Hebrew for "bridge" — a name that is not on the list.

Officials have ordered her to change the boy's name but she refuses.

In America, where people name their kids "Sunshine" or "Rainbow" or "Moon Rocket," it's hard to imagine such a law.

One member of the county office — the governing body responsible for enforcing Norway's odd law — explained it this way: "We find it best for children to have normal names. If they have weird names, other children make fun of them and they feel unloved. This can cause them problems in later life.

"We believe we can eliminate a lot of trouble if nobody's name stands out and calls attention to itself."

Mrs. Larsen disagrees. A Norwegian newspaper quoted her as saying that she had a dream in which an angel told her to name her child Gesher.

"I feel parents should have the right to name their babies whatever they want to," she said.

"In defense of that right, I'm willing to go to prison for Gesher's first five years and let my husband take care of him."

Mrs. Larsen's trial is set to begin in early March.

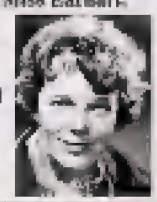
AMELIA EARHART'S REMAINS WERE FOUND IN 1940!

Searchers found the remains of Amelia Earhart on a remote island in the Pacific — way back in 1940!

That's right — the bones of the famed women aviator were probably found just three years after her plane went down in 1937. Two forensic scientists say newly discovered records indicate there's a strong likelihood the bones found nearly 60 years ago were those of Miss Earhart.

They say there's a 97.4 percent chance the remains were those of a Caucasian woman who was the pilot's height and weight, virtually guaranteeing it was Miss Earhart.



AVIATOR Amelia Earhart disappeared over the Pacific Ocean in 1937.

MATT in Pennsylvania.

Dear Dotti: I thought date rape only happened to women, but after last Friday my opinion has changed dramatically. It all started when this girl in my class at school asked me out. I was on cloud nine until I arrived at her house and found that her parents weren't home.

We talked for a while and then she invited me to see her room. That's when my troubles began. She made advances and when I resisted she got forceful. I pleaded with her to stop because I was a virgin and was saving myself for marriage.

She just laughed, threw me on the bed and threatened to tell the whole school that I didn't have any experience. Out of fear, I did what she told me to do and now I feel dirty all over and can't live with myself. What should I do? — Matt in Pennsylvania

Dear Matt: You made a mistake and now you're paying for it. And that, Buster, is what life is all about.

Why don't you stop your insults, Dotti?

Dear Dotti: You're a jerk. People ask you for advice and you don't give them any. You call them stupid. Why don't you give them straight answers instead of telling them they are stupid? — Angry in Illinois

Dear Angry: I get a lot of dumb letters but yours is one of the dumbest. I tell people they're stupid when they ARE stupid. It's as simple as that.

My weak hubby broke his resolutions after one day!

DEBBIE in Louisiana.

Dear Dotti: My husband resolved to quit smoking and drinking for the new year but was back puffing more cigarettes and guzzling more booze than ever in less than 24 hours. Just yesterday he smoked three packs of cigarettes and drank a full fifth of whiskey. I've been nagging him for a month now to stick to his resolutions but he just laughs in my face and tells me to get off my butt and clean the ashtray. Dear Fed up: Stop walking on eggshells and tell your friend the truth. If she doesn't like it, give her the boot.

Nutty neighbor made me smell her stinky feet!

Dear Dotti: My next-door neighbor caught me rifling through her purse and got mad as hell. I tried to explain that I only needed a dollar or two for gas, but she didn't buy it and threatened to call the cops but I begged her not to. She finally agreed to keep quiet on the condition that I get down on my hands and knees and smell her stinking feet. Of course, I did it, but now I'm not so sure I did the right thing. I think I probably should have told her where to go. What do you think? Did she have the right to do this to me? — Adam in Nevada

Dear Adam: Of course, she had the right. And in my book, she taught you a lesson.

Tell me, Dotti, what are women good for?

DARCY in South Dakota.

Dear Dotti: My husband's got a lot of nerve. The other day he actually told me women are good only for cooking, sex, and a good time, and that really roasts my butt. I think women and men are equal. What do you think? — Darcy in South Dakota

SECRETS TO BREATHTAKING

SEX

TRY EVERYTHING: Remember that there are no limits to what's acceptable in sex between loving partners.

'Cosmopolitan

NEW YORK CITY — A sizzli
new sex survey proves it beyond t shadow of a doubt: Russian wome are the world's most active lovers, but Czech women are happiest in bed!

That's the word from Cosmopolitan magazine, which surveyed women in 29 countries around the world and uncovered the truth about sex in some of the most exotic places on Earth.

Contrary to popular belief, Russian ladies are the world's hottest, with one in five reporting that they have sex at least once a day — every day.

Unfortunately, from their point of view, sex isn't all that great. A staggering 76 percent said sex is "satisfactory" at best.

Czech women are the happiest in bed, with two-thirds calling sex "fabulous." Second most happy are American women.

Natural sex pill that makes men & women go WILD in bed

You can fire up your love life with an herb called schizandra that boosts sexual stamina and pleasure to electrifying heights.

Even better, the Chinese herb, available in Oriental markets and health food stores, works equally well for men and women — and has herb and sexual energizer for thousands of years and is considered to be an important component of China's ancient system of herbal medicine and therapy.

The herb is reputed to give men astonishing sexual stamina and bring a warmth and sensitivity to fe-said to protect the skin from the damaging effects of sun and age.

Schizandra is also used as a lung and kidney tonic, as well as a pain reliever, herbalists report.

You can experience ecstasy in bed with the most rewarding sex you have ever known — just by learning 10 secret techniques for arousing your partner and yourself to new erotic heights.

These amazing sex secrets have been shown to bring deeper satisfaction to lovers and to strengthen the bonds between sexual partners. Researchers say men and women who use these techniques experience much more exciting love lives.

To help yourself and your loved one enjoy more deeply satisfying sex, set aside the taboos that have held you back and try these tips for erotic ecstasy you've only dreamed of:

1. Heighten His Interest With Sexy Activities: Invent a secret language so you can invite each other to make love with gestures and phrases no one else understands. Enjoy a romantic dinner, take a bath together. Dress provocatively, and use your body to give your partner an invitation to sex.

2. The More Time for Sex, the Better: You'll need at least a half hour to slowly and sensuously pleasure each other — and more time would be even better. Make sex a whole-body activity, a leisurely head-to-toe exploration. Penetration and orgasm are only one aspect of complete sex. Foreplay and afterplay are just as important as genital lovemaking.

3. Use All Your Senses: Touch, taste, sight, smell, hearing — each of these can heighten your sexual ecstasy. Think up intriguing ways to use your senses to arouse yourself and your partner. Try everything. Remember that there are no limits to what's acceptable in sex between loving partners.

4. Take Sex Seriously: Give and take feedback. Assume responsibility for making sex better by telling your partner what you want and asking him what he enjoys. Learn your partner's "hot spots" so you can arouse him. To experience deep pleasure in bed, you have to devote thought and effort to lovemaking.

Read about it, think about it, talk about it — and practice as often as you can. Before long you will have elevated your lovemaking to an erotic art.

5. Do the Unexpected: Your love life will become humdrum if it's always the same. Vary positions and locations.

Surprise him with sexy clothes. Delight your lover with sensual experiences, using feathers, foods, sex toys — anything that might be mutually enjoyable. Seduce him at unexpected times.

6. Use Your Mouth and Hands: Touch your partner all over with delicate, featherlight strokes. Gently pinch him, rub and massage every inch of his body slowly and sensuously.

With your lips and teeth, nibble his neck, his back, his ears, his toes. Give him gentle love bites.

Use your imagination to excite him all over.

7. Anything Goes: Don't let taboos or preconceived ideas of what's "proper" inhibit you. In bed, do what you enjoy and what your partner enjoys, not what you think you should do. You will be delighted with the new, heightened feelings.

8. Talk to Your Partner in Bed: Whisper sweet words of love. Tell him what you like and how much you like it. Excite him by telling him what pleasure he is giving you. And don't avoid sexy "dirty" words, as long as they're exciting and not offensive. Talking "dirty" can be a real turn-on.

9. Share Your Fantasies: Do you secretly want to be a helpless love slave? Would you like to pretend you and your partner are just meeting for the first time? Share these fantasies and enrich your lovelife with breathtaking new experiences.

10. Bond After Sex: Afterplay — cuddling, expressing love, stroking each other — is an important way to end your exciting new sexual encounters.

Don't just roll over and go to sleep. Spend another 10 minutes or so after intercourse enjoying the intimacy and satisfaction you have achieved.

Date-rape drug a lurking danger for college coeds!

By JACK ALEXANDER / Weekly World News

Worried U.S. officials have banned importation of the potent painkiller Rohypnol, nicknamed the date-rape drug because of its widespread use in sexual assaults.

Known on the street as "roofies," the drug sells for $3 to $5 a pill and is 10 times more powerful than Valium. Mixed with alcohol, it can lead to unconsciousness and memory loss.

Hundreds of teens and college students across the country say they've been raped after their drinks were spiked by a single pill that put them to sleep for up to eight hours.

Rohypnol is used widely as a pre-surgery sedative in Latin America and has been brought into the U.S. by Colombians and Mexicans.

The pills are manufactured by a Swiss-Food and Drug Administration, travelers to the U.S. could bring in a three-month supply for personal use.

"We are taking a step we believe can prevent this drug from endangering more teenagers," U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin said. "This is a case of government doing what it ought to do — attacking a problem before it gets worse."

The Drug Enforcement Administration is taking steps to group Rohypnol as a Schedule 1 drug in the same category as heroin, methaqualone and LSD.

Smugglers would be subject to prosecution. Pills declared at border crossings

Did dentist steal my wallet while I was out cold?

SETH in Canton.

Dear Serena: I think my dentist is a crook! He had me under anesthesia and I think he stole my wallet while I was knocked out. I remember taking my wallet into his office and then when I got home it was gone. I'm sure he stole it, and if you'll confirm that he did, I'll march into his office and announce that he's a thief. Should I do that? — Seth in Canton

Dear Seth: Please, don't accuse your dentist. The wallet was swiped by his assistant when he was out of the room. Your dentist suspects the assistant has been doing things like this and if you tell him what happened, he'll get rid of her. By the way, you should ask your dentist to take an X-ray of the right side of your mouth — you have one wisdom tooth that hasn't come in yet and it might give you trouble someday.

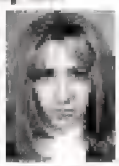
Dear Serena: My mother is constantly pressuring me to marry this guy named Ray. He treats me really well, is a great-looking fellow and comes from a rich family, but I'm still not sure that he's the right guy for me. Ray's the only man I've ever dated and I'm afraid that I'll always wonder what I missed out on if I don't date other guys. Do you think I should suggest that we both date other people for a while? Or should I take my mother's advice and marry him? — Claire in Litchfield



CLAIRE in Litchfield.

Dear Claire: You are not alone. Ray is having some of the same doubts about marriage that you are having. But I must warn you — if you start seeing other people, Ray will be happily married to another woman within a year. If you marry him now, the two of you will have a long, wonderful marriage and three beautiful daughters. And you will greatly enjoy living in Washington, D.C., after Ray is elected to Congress in the year 2006.

Dear Serena: Unlike some of the people who write to you, I'm not looking for advice that will make me rich. In fact, all I need is $461.17 and I'll be perfectly happy. I don't even have to hit the big lottery, if I can just have a few numbers so I can win $461.17, I'd appreciate it. — Greta in Spokane

Dear Greta: You won't need to play the lottery after you receive your mail next Monday. This is the money that your sister-in-law owes you from three years ago. You have been very kind by not bothering her for the money, and this week she will suddenly "remember" that she owes you the money.

GRETA in Spokane.

Dear Serena: How did I get food poisoning? Was it something I ate at Mom's? Or was it that disgusting cheesecake at my neighbor's birthday party? — Sick in Lake City

Dear Sick: The seafood salad you brought home from your mother's and ate two days later made you sick. Throw the rest of it away immediately. If you eat it, you'll wind up going to the hospital.

Dear Serena: Can you cast a spell to help me sleep through the night? When I was younger, I had no trouble sleeping, but ever since I started high school, I have started waking up four or five times a night. Can you help me? — Eric in Wichita

Dear Eric: It's your new TV. Even though you think it helps you sleep, it doesn't. There's a button on the remote control that automatically turns it off after 60 minutes. Use it and you can fall asleep with the TV on and not have it wake you up later.

ERIC in Wichita.

Dear Serena: My husband wants to move to Florida but I want to stay here in Montana. He has a job offer that he says will pay him about $40,000, about three times what he makes now. We're happy here in Montana and I'm afraid if we go down there we'll be miserable. What should we do? — Undecided in Missoula

Dear Undecided: Go ahead and make the move. I won't lie to you, it will be tough at first. But when you get a job with a salary even higher than his, you'll be glad you moved.

PERSONAL TO . . .

Sideswiped in Joliet: Your car was hit by a girl visiting your neighbor's son. She's away at college now, but when she returns next weekend, you'll find a dent on the side of her van.

Sleepless in Birmingham: No, your great-grandmother was not a witch.

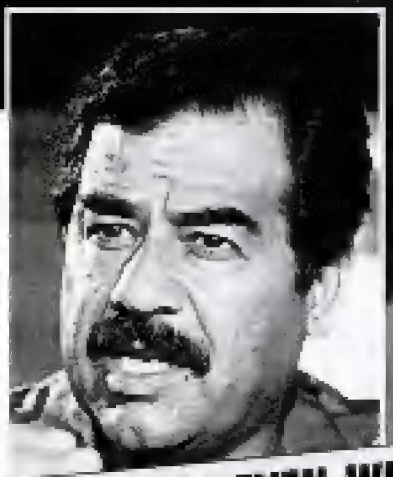
I FEEL PRETTY! OH SO PRETTY!

Saddam Hussein is a secret cross-dresser who loves to wear makeup, insiders reveal!



RECENT BOMBINGS have driven the cross-dressing Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein out of the closet and over the edge.

WACKY IRAQI EVEN WEARS A PASTE-ON MUSTACHE!

By RANDY JEFFRIES
Weekly World News

BAGHDAD — A shocking new photo reveals that madman dictator Saddam Hussein's "strongman" image is a phony facade. The Iraqi leader is a mincing, homosexual cross-dresser who attends top-level military meetings in eye shadow, lipstick and hoop earrings!

And even his macho moustache is a bogus paste-on, designed to give his people the false impression that he's a masculine tough guy.

The revealing photograph was leaked to Weekly World News by an Iraqi defector, a former high-level official who says there are "serious concerns" about Hussein among the tyrant's advisers.

"Of course we've always known that Saddam is gay," said the source who asked to remain anonymous.

"In fact photos of him with his gay lover were published in your paper back in 1990.

"But until recently, he's always been fairly discreet, thought they were safe. Lately however, he's throwing caution to the winds. He goes swishing down the halls of the royal palace in full makeup, carrying a purse and giggling like a schoolgirl.

"On some occasions, he's spurned his uniform in favor of a strapless evening gown."

believe it's the stress he's been under lately. The bombing of his country's military facilities in December 1998 affected him more than he would like people to know.

Others close to Hussein blame his brazenness on his new lover.

"Saddam's old boyfriend left him after the 1990 scandal aging Hussein to 'come out of the closet' and make it easier for others to throw off the shame and stigma attached to the gay lifestyle.'

But whatever the reason, Hussein's "secret" is becoming more well-known with every passing week.

And many believe it won't be long before the feared leader will begin appearing in public dressed in women's attire.

UGLY MENTAL PATIENTS DON'T HAVE A SNOWBALL'S CHANCE IN HELL OF GETTING BETTER!

ADELAIDE, Australia — The uglier a mental patient is, the more trouble he'll have coping with the world once he or she is released from a psychiatric hospital, a new study shows.

"The more handsome or beautiful a patient is, the more likely that person is to make a good life for himself on the outside," said researcher Dr. Daniel Doon, who studied the progress of more than 8,000 patients in seven countries.

"Those who are below average in looks are much more likely to need future institutionalization than those who are of above-average appearance."

GETTING A FLU SHOT CAN PARALYZE YOU!

BOSTON — Getting a flu shot may protect you from influenza — but it could leave you paralyzed!

New research, published in The New England Journal of Medicine, indicates that flu vaccinations dramatically raise the risk of contracting Guillain-Barre syndrome — a condition that can weaken and paralyze arms and legs.

TINNITUS RELIEF!

If you experience symptoms such as ringing in the ears, or buzzing, hissing, whistling or other sounds, you should know about a new book: The Tinnitus Handbook—A Self-Help Guide.

The book contains a wealth of new information on Tinnitus—what causes unwanted noises, how to deal with them, and how to protect yourself from frustrating Tinnitus symptoms.

The book gives you facts on the latest natural, alternative and medical remedies that can bring prompt and lasting relief from unwanted ringing and irritating sounds in your ears. You will learn all about new treatments and find out how and why they work.

You'll discover how to get relief by gently massaging a specific part of your neck. You'll find out about a simple breathing exercise which "cleanses" the inner ear and brings relief. You'll discover how untiring dietary changes can bring dramatic relief. You'll learn why a trace mineral deficiency often causes symptoms—and how one doctor gets rid of Tinnitus symptoms by supplementing the diet with 2 specific nutrients. You'll learn how an herbal ear drop used before bedtime can help—and even how a little-known prescription medication brings relief about 76 percent of the time.

Many people are putting up with irritating Tinnitus symptoms because they are not aware of new natural and alternative treatments and the welcome relief that is available.

Get all the facts. Order The Tinnitus Handbook—A Self-Help Guide today. The book is available for only $12.95 (plus $3 postage & handling). How to Collect $$ from Uncle Sam

One out of every four Americans is collecting monthly benefits from Uncle Sam. This year alone over $351 billion will be handed out despite proposed budget cuts. If you are eligible for benefits but don't know how to apply, you may simply lose out.

But you don't have to lose out! A new book, written by a former federal investigator, explains the many cash benefits available to eligible Americans today. The book explains how to collect: Social Security benefits, small business loans, income supplements, education benefits, home and farm loans, unemployment, job training, rent assistance, disability payments, pensions, veteran's benefits, even food stamps and welfare. Here are a few facts covered:

- How 55 million Americans collect from Social Security and other federal programs (average age: about 32).
- How to make the entire family eligible for federal benefits, even your youngest child.
- How almost 3 million children get monthly benefit checks.
- How eligible couples collect up to $1100 a month to supplement the family income.
- How to qualify for disability pensions (over 3.5 million collecting but thousands more eligible).
- How to find out how much you have paid into Social Security (the book contains a form you mail in to the proper agency.)
- How to know when to quit work and start collecting monthly Social Security checks.
- How to get free legal assistance.
- How to get a $750,000 loan to start your own business. (It's simple and the book tells you exactly how to do it.)
- How to collect a $54,000 loan for a mobile home, including lot.
- How to collect a $25,000 home improvement loan.
- How to get free medical coverage, including eye glasses and dental care.
- A toll-free number to call for FREE information on any health matter.
- How to collect hundreds of dollars a month to pay your apartment rent, including utilities.
- How 1 in 10 Americans collects food stamps.
- How to buy your own home and have Uncle Sam pay part of your house payment.
- How to obtain thousands of dollars in free services.

With the help of this book, many families are now living more comfortably.

Although The Complete Handbook of U.S. Government Benefits could mean thousands of dollars to you, it is being offered at only $12.95 (plus $3 postage and handling). Order from: R. Emil Neuman, Dept. WC-44, 240 S. Highway 101, Solana Beach, CA 92075. You may for relaxation and enjoyable activities. Get closer to your family.

SUFFERING FROM AN 'ANXIETY' EPIDEMIC

... warn top psychiatrists

DON'T back yourself into a corner.

That's how you beat anxiety.

Here is what four top psychiatrists say about changing your attitude — and life — for the better.

☞ Make demands: "The first step is to shake yourself out of the distressed, 'blah' feeling that anxiety causes," said Dr. Harold Voth. "We're losing the knack of fighting for the things we believe in. Get mad at your congressmen with a fiery letter or phone call. Get mad at those petty little bureaucrats. Don't just sit back and let people walk all over you. At the very least, the mere fact that you did something about a problem is in itself a very good way of relieving anxiety."

☞ Believe in yourself: "The next time you get all knotted up inside or are tossing and turning in bed from worry, give yourself this pep talk: There's nothing I can't handle. I've got the confidence to tackle the problems that make me anxious and stressed. And once I get rid of those problems, the anxiety will be gone."

☞ Become self-sufficient: Realize that nobody is going to take care of your problems. You're going to have to do it yourself. "For example, if you've heard that people are going to be laid off where you work and you're likely to be one of them, don't just cry about it," Dr. Voth said. "Find out what other jobs are available in town, read the employment ads and make contact with other people. An active mind has no time for anxiety."

☞ Don't worry about what other people think of you: "One of the reasons we're anxious is that we lack self-esteem because we're constantly craving acceptance or praise from others, said Dr. Herbert Modlin. "But as long as you feel you're right and have done the best you could, why on earth should you be concerned whether others agree?"

☞ Find time to relax every day: It can be nothing more than reading a book in a quiet room, working on a stamp collection or puttering in the garden. A hobby of any kind will offer more relief from anxiety, Dr. Robert Obourn suggests.

"Do something fun and constructive like making a fishing rod. By working with your hands, you're forgetting the problems of the day — and you'll feel better because you've accomplished something."

☞ Exercise: One of the best ways to beat anxiety is to include some type of physical activity in your daily life, the psychiatrists said. Try jogging or swimming or a few simple stretching exercises at home.

☞ Get closer to your family and friends: One of the best weapons to fight anxiety is right at your doorstep — your family and friends, Dr. William Turnover said. "Make your home your haven and give a lot of priority to family activities. And don't be afraid to talk over problems with other members of the family. For example, if you need to take $20 out of the food best be handled. You may reach agreement that for the next month the kids will go without potato chips and dip. Dad will cut back on his beer and Mom will give up doughnuts. Result: A fantastic feeling of relief from anxiety. And whether you're single or married, don't be afraid to talk about your own problems with friends. You can't expect them to solve the situation, but you'll hear ideas which could help."

☞ Educate yourself: "If you about the problem — and then act," Dr. Voth said. "For example, suppose you've got money in the bank and you're worried because inflation is eating it away. You can't stop inflation from happening, but there are things you can do to lessen the impact. Read all you can about getting the highest return for your money and then consult with a banker or broker who can help you. This way you can reduce AMES, Iowa — Don't let your kids watch you buy a Lotto ticket — you could be turning them into compulsive gamblers!

Some compulsive gamblers say the seeds were planted when their fathers let them scratch off a lottery ticket

PHILADELPHIA — Amazing psychic Judy Beldino can read people's personalities and futures — by looking at their urine. And what's more, the former lab technician says that with practice and patience, almost anyone can develop the skill!

Those who have consulted Miss Beldino say she can look at a person's urine and foretell intimate details of his finances, his love life, his spiritual condition — in short, his entire destiny.

"It's a combination of biology, intuition and something even I don't understand," says Miss Beldino who spent four years scanning urine for diabetes at a medical laboratory.

"While I was working with the lab I began to sense things from the samples I was evaluating — things that had nothing to do with whether the patient was ill or not."

Since the patients' identities were classified, she asked friends to provide her with urine samples to test herself.

The amazed friends found that she could glean intimate details of their lives and even predict what would happen to them in the future. Her reputation continued to grow and she's now one of the most accurate and respected psychics in America. "She picked the exact day I would meet my husband," said one delighted newlywed. "And she even knew what he'd be wearing."

Miss Beldino says: "Learning to read urine samples is a skill that can't be taught — but it can be learned. In other words I can't tell you exactly how I do it because I don't know. But if you're willing to spend two hours a day looking at urine samples and relaxing your mind, in a year or so you'll begin to sense things about the donor." But she says knowing three factors and their meanings will help:

● COLOR — Generally speaking, if a person's urine is light and watery, they need to develop more character if they're ever going to realize their goals. On the other hand, a dark yellow color usually indicates they're too intense and are headed for trouble.

● CLARITY — Cloudy urine indicates confusion — too many thoughts cluttering the mind. But too-clear urine reveals mental laziness.

● AMOUNT OF SEDIMENT — If there are lots of particles in the urine, the donor is too preoccupied with worries.

This will tend to drive — or keep — romance away. No particles at all indicates a dull marriage or relationship.

GOOD NEWS

Eavesdropping is good for you, says top doc!

By PAT WELLS
Weekly World News

You can reduce stress and tension in your life — just by eavesdropping in public, says an expert.

"When people are in public — doing daily errands or traveling to and from work — many of them shut off the outside world and become absorbed in themselves," says psychiatrist Jack Leedy.

"This usually involves mulling over problems — and can make you tense."

Instead, listen to the conversations around you, suggests Dr. Leedy. "It reduces stress by giving you a chance to get outside yourself and your own concerns for a few minutes. It relaxes you by giving your mind something new to focus on.

"Listen to strangers talk to their companions just as you would to someone telling a story. Pay attention to what they are talking about and it will reduce your own stressful thoughts.

"Besides, public eavesdropping is fun. If you hear that someone else had a bad day or has really big problems, it can make your medium-size problems suddenly seem a lot smaller.

"When you overhear strangers revealing their difficulties or embarrassing moments, you realize your secret flaws are pretty common after all."

DO YOU HAVE A HAPPY MARRIAGE — OR ARE YOU HEADED FOR DIVORCE COURT?

Take this exclusive Weekly World News quiz and find out!

Here's how to test your marital happiness.

Answer each question frankly, then see the answers that follow.

1. When you both go out for the evening, do you prefer to: (a) go dancing, or (b) see a movie?

2. Do you make decisions quickly?

3. Do you think your mate is smarter than you are?

4. Does your mind: (a) remain active after you go to bed, or (b) are you asleep shortly after your head hits the pillow?

5. Did you give your true age when you were married?

6. After writing a personal letter, do you sometimes rewrite it before mailing it?

7. Are you and your spouse more or less equally attractive?

8. Are you stimulated by a lively argument? (a) Yes, (b) Not really.

9. Should mates open each other's letters?

10. Do you prefer to be alone when suffering emotional stress?

Now, check your answers:

1. If you answered (a), give yourself 10 points. Couples who like to dance together usually have a happy relationship. Score 10 points if you answered (b).

2. People who make quick decisions are likely to be lacking in self-assurance and probably are trying to impress others. Those who take their time are likely to have more confidence — and adjust better to marriage. Give yourself 10 points for a No.

3. If you're a wife, you get 10 points for a Yes. If you're a husband, take 10 points for a No. Most husbands like to feel they're somewhat smarter than their wives.

4. Give yourself 10 points for a (b). Persons whose minds are active after they go to bed are likely to be high-strung. A calm temperament makes for the best marital partner.

5. A woman will often conceal the fact that she's older than her husband. But small deceptions can often lead to ongoing deception in marriage. If you answered Yes, give yourself 10 points.

6. Studies show that the happiest married couples are likely to be equally attractive. Next best is when the wife is better-looking than the husband. When the good looks are mostly on the husband's side, that's bad. Add 10 points for a Yes.

7. Couples who try to avoid arguments tend to average higher happiness scores than those who don't. Add 10 points for a (b).

8. Public opinion surveys show that men and women regard this as an invasion of privacy. Give yourself 10 points for a No.

9. These studies show that couples who are bored with each other want livelier fun. Score 10 points if you answered (b).

10. People who are overly concerned with the impression they're making on others. Add 10 points for a No.

11. Studies show that couples who have a sense of humor about themselves are best able to cope with times of crisis. Score 10 points for a No.

It takes two to make a marriage, so get your mate to take the test and average your scores by adding them up and dividing by two.

If your score is 80 or over: Your marriage is probably in great shape.

If your score is 51-75: Your marriage could stand improvement. Work together to strengthen your relationship.

If your score is 25-50: Your marriage might be basically sound, but there are probably many areas in which you and your spouse don't see eye to eye. Work hard to eliminate those problems.

A score of 20 or less: This indicates trouble. If you and your spouse can't sit down and Amazing ways smugglers try to sneak drugs into America!

By OWEN BAILEY / Weekly World News

Drug smugglers are coming up with mind-blowing ways to try to sneak their narcotics into the U.S. — hiding marijuana in artificial limbs, molding solid cocaine into ashtrays and even stuffing drugs in a dead baby's body!

"Five years ago the most common way to smuggle drugs was with a secret compartment in a suitcase, but those days are long gone," said a supervisor of U.S. Customs at Miami International Airport — where more than $1 billion in drugs is seized each year.

In one bizarre drug-running scheme, a woman who boarded a Miami-bound plane in South America triggered a flight attendant's suspicions because the tightly wrapped baby she was carrying didn't move.

"The woman was very nervous, and that made the attendant even more uneasy about the situation," said a federal agent.

When the plane touched down in Miami, the attendant alerted customs agents — who made the gruesome discovery that the baby, which had been dead for some time, had been cut open and stuffed with cocaine before being sewn up again.

Other astonishing and clever ruses that smugglers have tried, the customs source said:

"Artificial limbs are popular items. Once we stopped a young man and found three pounds of marijuana stuffed inside his artificial leg!

"Not too long ago we discovered 400 pounds of marijuana inside a shipment of pumpkins. Recently a shipment of 'yams' arrived from Colombia — and we discovered they were actually made of cocaine! The coke had been pressed into the size and shape of yams, covered with medical gauze and then rolled in dirt, which usually covers fresh yams. The coke would have fetched more than $125 million on the street.

"Another popular technique is to fill religious artifacts with cocaine on the assumption that customs inspectors won't tamper with anything sacred.

"Using a new chemical process, smugglers are able to turn cocaine into a kind of modeling clay and create innocent-looking objects which can later be converted back to cocaine.

"One of our inspectors found what appeared to be a marble ashtray in a passenger's handbag. But his suspicions were aroused when he noticed the ashtray felt lighter than you'd expect. He scraped it with a knife — and found it was a solid piece of cocaine!

"Just think of the wildest way to smuggle drugs in — and it has probably been tried."

How to get back at someone who yells at you

By TRISH FURMAN
Weekly World News

LEARN TO KEEP YOUR COOL: When attacked, about 70 percent of us become visibly frightened.

. . . AND SQUASH THEM LIKE A BUG!

How do you react when someone yells at you? The best way is to keep your cool — and you can learn how by following these tips from an expert.

"Most people allow antagonists to get the better of them," says Dr. Robert Bramson, author of Coping With Difficult People.

"When attacked, about 70 percent of us become visibly frightened. About 20 percent scream back. Only 10 percent know how to keep their cool."

Here are Dr. Bramson's suggestions for staying cool under fire:

☞ Use "stand up" body language. Don't look down, slump or assume a defensive posture, he said. "Your body language must show you're not someone to push around. Stand up straight. Look the individual in the eye."

☞ Get the "yeller" to sit down. Most people aren't as aggressive when they're seated. "Point to a chair and say, 'If we're going to argue, we might as well be comfortable.'"

☞ Interrupt at your first opportunity. "Say something like, 'I disagree with you, but I want to hear more about what's on your mind.' This will help you regain some measure of control."

☞ Avoid fighting words and fighting questions. Almost any question that starts with "why" or "how" — such as "Why are you so angry?" — is sure to cause trouble, said Dr. Bramson.

☞ Talk facts, not feelings. When you get the chance to express your point of view, don't whine or complain about your feelings.

It makes you appear vulnerable, and encourages further attack.

☞ Be ready to be friendly. Be willing to bury the hatchet, for this could mark the start of a productive, valuable relationship.

QUESTIONS KIDS ASK GOD

Children ask the darndest questions, particularly when they're writing to God. For example:

• Who does your job when you're on vacation? — Jason.

• Is it true my father won't get into Heaven if he uses his bowling words in the house? — Anita

• Please put another holiday between Christmas and Easter. There is nothing good in there now. — Ginny

• How come you did all those miracles in the old days and don't do any now? — Seymour

CIA building secret shelter to protect govt. officials from Armageddon!

By NICK MANN / Weekly World News

WASHINGTON — Under direct orders from President Bill Clinton, the FBI, CIA and Secret Service have joined forces in an unprecedented attempt to protect key government officials from the plagues, pestilence, misery and death that the rest of us will suffer when the world ends in the year 2000!

That's the word from former CIA domestic operations agent Dale Lallinholt who actually headed up the multiagency task force that masterminded Operation End Times before he "found Christ and resigned" last year.

FORMER CIA agent Dale Lallinholt headed up Operation End Times.

According to Lallinholt, the plan calls for 2,000 key politicians, doctors, scientists, intellectuals and support personnel to be sheltered in a sprawling, bombproof compound for up to four years after the final battle between good and evil, Armageddon, takes place.

When they emerge from the shelter, the plan calls for them to repopulate the planet with the offspring of what are now some of the most pow-

Are your in-laws to blame for your marital problems?

To find out, take this simple quiz prepared by psychologist Herbert Hoffman. Just answer the questions true or false, then refer to the scoring and analysis that follow.

By SHELLY BRIGHAM
Weekly World News

1. My in-laws weren't pleased with our marriage, or they objected to our getting married.
2. My in-laws side with my spouse in every dispute.
3. My spouse often compares me unfavorably with his or her opposite-sex parent.
4. My in-laws regularly and repeatedly overindulge our children.
5. My in-laws are openly critical of the way I do many things (keep house, earn a living, etc.).
6. My in-laws often "drop in" unexpectedly.
7. My mate and I clash over which set of parents to visit on holidays.
8. My in-laws demand too much (time, money, help, attention, etc.) from my spouse.
9. My in-laws insist we follow their family traditions.
10. My in-laws fight with each other and try to involve us in their quarrels.

SCORING:

Add up the number of questions to which you answered "true." Then check Dr. Hoffman's analysis of your score:

0–3: There's little possibility that your in-laws are the cause of any marital problems you are having. You've managed to keep conflict with in-laws to a minimum and have learned to prevent them from intruding into your life.

4 to 7: Your relationship with your in-laws is about average — sometimes good, sometimes not. It is quite normal for in-laws to be a source of marital conflict from time to time.

Unpleasantness between generations can be handled much better if you and your mate each take responsibility for dealing with his or her own family. When a couple feels they have to make specific requests — like telling parents not to "drop in" so often or "spoil the kids" or "be so nosy" — it's best for parents to hear that from their own child.

8 to 10: It looks as though your in-laws are "out-laws" as far as your marriage is concerned! It's possible that you and your spouse are far too involved with one or both sets of parents, causing conflicting loyalties and frequent clashes.

To resolve marital difficulties, you must first get over past hurts and resentments. It's immature to hold grudges.

You can change your day-to-day relationship with your in-laws by making it clear that you and your mate are free to accept or reject their advice, help or standards. Maintain your independence as a couple.

If they invariably butt in when you two fight, get your mate to agree not to let them in on your differences. Keep them in the dark as much as possible. Don't let them know when there's a conflict raging between you.

If they stop in unexpectedly, set guidelines as to when they can visit.

Don't get caught up in their battles. Refuse to allow their disputes to spill over and negatively affect your marriage and your life.

Jealous cockatoo rips bride's eyes out!

By JOE BERGER/ Weekly World News

ADELAIDE, Australia — A crazed cockatoo named Cassie was so jealous of her master's new bride that she attacked the ill-fated lady in the middle of the night — and pecked her eyes out!

Investigators say aspiring actress Anna Tyson, 26, was blinded for life when nasty Cassie escaped from her cage and plucked the beautiful newlywed's eyeballs from their sockets the night of December 29.

"That bird flew into the woman's face, gouged her blind, then yanked her eyeballs out as easy as picking maraschino cherries from a bowl of pudding," said shocked cop Kenneth Donnelly. "Those cockatoos can be very strong — and very mean, too, when they

"I was going to give her away as soon as I could find a good home for her, but I couldn't find anybody to take her, even though she was a loveable bird most of the time. So I promised Anna I'd protect her from Cassie until I found her a new place to live."

"It seemed like one moment we were on top of the world and the next moment my Anna was screaming and I woke up to the worst nightmare any human could possibly face," said the stunned hubby.

"Now Anna's dreams of being an actress are ruined and her life is pretty much destroyed. But even after all of that, I still

Pretty veterinarian

. . . after breakup with her boyfriend

HYTHE, England — Depressed over a breakup with her boyfriend, a young veterinarian committed suicide with an overdose of drugs she normally used to humanely put animals to sleep.

Beautiful and talented Ceridwen Wray, 33, was found slumped in a chair in her home by heartbroken boyfriend Richard Little.

The couple's relationship had become stressful after they decided to sell their homes and buy a house together, Little told a Board of Inquest.

"We tried to sort out our problems over dinner and a couple of bottles of wine," the distraught boyfriend said.

The next morning Little said he went to her home and found the curtains were drawn and her dog was barking.

"I let myself in and saw her unconscious in the chair," he said.

"She was cold. Next to her were drugs she used to put 7-minute surgery can end foot pain!

By JEANNE KOLDEN
Weekly World News

A painful foot problem that plagues millions can be cured in just seven minutes with a new mini-operation called "keyhole surgery."

It's so effective that patients are walking around — and usually back at work — the very next day.

"Ninety percent of sufferers can benefit from this new surgery," declared Dr. Stephen Barrett of Houston, who developed the technique to treat the common foot condition "Morton's neuroma," which causes intense pain in the balls of the feet.

"Until now, the only treatment was to surgically cut the nerve with a 2-inch incision. But this created a dead feeling in part of the foot and required a long and painful recovery time.

"The new keyhole surgery takes only seven minutes under local anesthesia. Patients are walking in their regular shoes and even showering the next day."

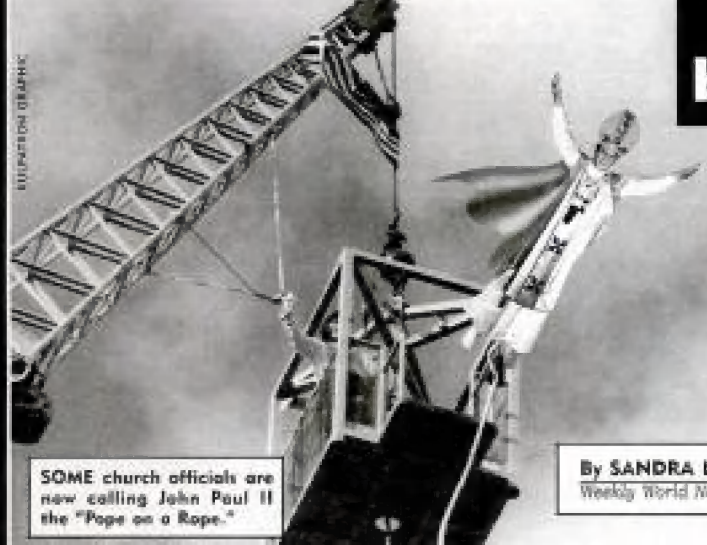
Dr. Barrett has been teaching the technique — which involves just a tiny puncture-like incision — to foot doctors around the country.

Podiatric researcher Dr. Paul Stone has had a 92 percent success rate with keyhole surgery.

"This is an excellent new procedure," he said, "and it is the treatment of choice for this painful foot problem."

HOLY SMOKE! It's Pope on a Rope!

John Paul II says he'll bungee jump this spring!



SOME church officials are now calling John Paul II the "Pope on a Rope."

By SANDRA LEE
Weekly World News

VATICAN CITY — Although his worried advisors are begging him not to, Pope John Paul II is going to bungee-jump!

That's right, the 78-year-old Pontiff said he's in the best shape of his life, and to prove it he wants to do a 120-foot bungee jump.

Commentators are having a field day with the idea, dubbing the event "Pope on a Rope." But Vatican insiders don't think it's so funny.

"There are so many things that could go wrong," said one high-ranking Catholic Church official, who asked not to be identified.

"And even if nothing bad happens, we're afraid the Vatican might licity stunt. I just don't see any positive side to this."

The fun-loving Pope thinks a bungee jump would be the perfect thing to attract more young people to the church.

He also believes the jump would end persistent rumors about his failing health.

"The Holy Father says he is in condition to do this and I don't doubt him," the source said. "But even if there's a one-in-a-million chance of something going wrong, it's not worth the risk."
